

CECIL BURGESS REACHES 100

When a man reaches one hundred years of age, he has a lot to remember. CECIL BURGESS, Professor Emeritus of Architecture, has many places, people and accomplishments to call back to mind. He sits before the window in the North Garneau where he has lived for the thirty years since his retirement, and he reflects on the years gone past. "All that accumulated wisdom?" he laughs. "Oh yes, like everything else, I have left it behind."

Professor Burgess was born one hundred years ago this October 4 in Bombay, India. His parents left Bombay when he was one year old to return to their native Scotland, so Cecil "decided it would be wise to go with them." He lived in Edinburgh and received his architectural training there under George Washington Brown.

In 1903 Cecil Burgess had an opportunity to come to Canada to work for the brother of a friend. He arrived in Montreal and worked for a time with a French architect, LaPierre. On the recommendation of Nobbs and Hyde, a Montreal firm which drew the first plans for The University of Alberta, he was offered a position.

In 1913 Mr. Burgess left for the west to become architectural consultant for the University. His associate in Montreal bade him farewell with a question—"What are you going to do in that bleak country all covered with snow?" Mr. Burgess wondered himself when he arrived. "It was bleak, and pretty sparsely populated. The only buildings were St. Stephen's College and the two residences, Athabasca and Assiniboia."

The first project for the new architect was Pembina Hall. The structure he designed and saw built was made of steel and concrete, a considerable improvement over the other residences which were wooden. Mr. Burgess saw them as fire hazards, and made sure that fire escapes were added.

The old staff homes on the "loop," the campus circle, were also designed by Professor Burgess. President Tory and many of the early professors lived around the circle, Professor Burgess in Number 8 himself.

The Arts Building was the largest campus building for which Cecil Burgess was responsible. He designed the structure and saw the foundations laid, but the building was finished while he was in the First World War. His mastery is evident today, as Pembina and the Arts Building are in better condition than many buildings of their vintage.

A few months after his arrival, Cecil Burgess was appointed Professor of Architecture. He taught the students architectural design and drafting, while courses in physics were given by the engineering faculty, and instruction in sanitation by the medical faculty. Professor Burgess's approach to teaching was very practical. "I did not tell them to design palaces, or make them learn things which they would never use. I had them work on ordinary buildings and structural problems. Their training was directly applicable to everyday practice. Many of my students rose to the top of their profession." Since his retirement, architecture has not been taught at the University.

Professor Burgess has shared many of the benefits of his long and full life. During his travels in Europe he made drawings of great classics of architecture, over one hundred of which he has donated to the Provincial Museum and Archives. His donations to the United Community Fund have been regular and generous; he is their largest contributor in the Edmonton district. Until two years ago he played at the

FALL CONVOCATION

Fall Convocation will be held in the Jubilee Auditorium, Saturday, October 31.

L. R. DESROCHERS will be installed as Chancellor. Honorary degrees will be presented to W. H. JOHNS, Professor of Classics and former President of The University of Alberta, and J. E. STERLING, former President and Lifetime Chancellor of Stanford University and an alumnus of The University of Alberta. Graduates who will receive degrees this fall number 1,145.

Garneau Lawn Bowling Club.

His life is quiet now. Sometimes the telephone rings, or visitors come to chat. He enjoys listening to the recorded readings of books which he gets through the Institute for the Blind. With a spry wit he talks about the University today. "I don't recognize it. It doesn't seem clear. I am lost among it."

The day of his hundredth birthday was an exciting one. "We had quite a party. The room was full, there were not enough chairs for all to sit and," he chuckles, "there was nothing stronger to drink than tea."

POLITICAL DISCUSSION

The discussion on the implementation of the War Measures Act which took place Wednesday, October 19, showed a few significant changes. It was probably the largest, best organized, and most rational meeting of its kind on this campus. Several thousand heard facts and opinions expressed with control, although they did not entirely escape the usual inflamed rantings.

Father McMahon, Rector of College St. Jean, voiced with dignity the shame felt by French Canadians for the "abhorrent actions of the FLQ. We who are building an institution with which French Canadians can identify are disappointed by the use of terrorist measures." He emphasized that it is more a French-Canadian than an English-Canadian problem. "The English should not step in to tell us what to do. Western Canada does not understand Quebec." He pointed to the reasons for the outbreaks—not the immediate reasons, but the deep-seated inequalities extant in the province.

Professor Molot of the Faculty of Law discussed the legal implications of the War Measures Act. "What it means," he said, "is the government can do whatever they bloody-well please. During the wars, blatant cases of persecution were facilitated by this act, for example against the Japanese on the West Coast. We must rely on the integrity of the government." He questioned the need for such extreme measures as the right to search and arrest without warrant, and expressed hope that new means of emergency control would be created.

"The Quebec problem," said Guy Bisson, "is not an ethnic problem, but a class problem." He discussed the oppression of the 80 per cent majority French Canadians in Quebec.

"French are workers, English are bosses.

The one-Canada, B and B platform has been useless, and exists only to convince the Quebecois that there is no suppression. Government reaction is the trick of dramatizing the loss of one life to create conditions to wipe out opposition."

Ian Walker, a member of the audience, read a statement from the Communist party of Quebec, spurring many other comments in the general category of oppression, women's liberation, and American imperialism.

The audience reacted most favorably to a foreign student who came forth in support of government action. "I have seen the rise of terrorist groups; it is very rapid, and it needs rapid control. The right to dissent is imperative, but the government must also have the power to take away this right to protect the country. Where is the respect for human life that these people [the FLQ] supposedly represent?"

Report on tenure procedures

The "Report on the Ad Hoc Committee of General Faculties Council on Tenure Procedures" has been received by the Executive Committee of the Council. The report will be considered by the Council at a later date. Persons wishing to comment on any aspect of it should direct their submissions to JOHN NICOL, Secretary to the Council. The report follows.

The GFC Ad Hoc Committee on Tenure Procedures fully recognizes that academic freedom is essential to carrying out the primary functions of the University in the pursuit and dissemination of knowledge and understanding through teaching and research.

The right to seek the truth, wherever it may be found and without regard to whether it is popular or unpopular, controversial or non-controversial, is basic to the concept of the University and its integrity.

The Committee further recognizes that tenure of academic appointment is essential to the maintenance of academic freedom and that many of our academic forbears struggled valiantly to protect those of us who enjoy the privilege of tenure today.

However, the Committee believes that the right to academic freedom and tenure of appointment carry with them the duty to use that freedom and tenure in a responsible way and an obligation to ensure the maintenance of the highest standards of academic and professional competence and performance by the members of the faculty. Those who enjoy tenure of appointment have a fundamental responsibility to carry their full weight in the University organization and in the fulfillment of its role.

The Committee is, then, in agreement with the general principles expressed by CAUT in its February, 1968, Bulletin and AUCC in the March, 1970, number of University Affairs.

The Committee also believes that for its future development The University of Alberta will require flexibility in its organization and staffing patterns and the ability to respond to changing financial dictates from our government and society.

The Committee therefore recommends a change in the form of academic appointment and in selection, appointment, review and dismissal procedures relating to academic staff.

TYPES OF APPOINTMENT

Two types of appointment are proposed for all future academic appointments:

A. Contract (term) appointments

Appointments by contract for a prescribed period. In each contract it shall clearly state that only a certain period of appointment is guaranteed and that there is no "right to continuation."

Continuation of the appointment may be contemplated subject to the performance of the individual and the needs of the department.

It should be recognized that departmental needs change from year to year in the light of retirements, resignations and changes in academic programming and it is frequently necessary to change direction in staffing and to release persons with this type of contract whether or not they are basically satisfactory in the performance of their duties. Such contract or term appointments shall normally be for a period of not more than three years and if a further contract or other appointment is to be offered this shall be done at an appropriate interval before the expiration of the contract.

Appropriate procedures should be established for selection, appointment, review and renewal.

B. Appointments "without definite term"

Appointments "without definite term" will be offered by the Board on the recommendation of an appropriate 'search and selection' committee.

Such appointments may be made in the first instance or following a period of contractual appointment.

The annual deliberations of the Faculty and General Promotions Committees shall constitute the regular review of appointment.

An appointment "without definite term" shall be terminated only upon proof of adequate cause and such terminations will constitute dismissal.

PRIOR APPOINTMENTS

The terms of appointment, and procedures relating thereto, for members of the academic staff appointed prior to the acceptance of any of these procedures shall not be effected or changed except by mutual agreement in accordance with present contracts of appointment.

Chairman of the Committee is D. F. CAMERON, Associate Dean of Medicine. Other members are E. J. GREENE, Associate Dean of Arts; R. R. HETT, Assistant Professor of History; G. L. MOWAT, Chairman of Educational Administration; and S. R. SINCLAIR, Chairman of Civil Engineering.

FESTIVAL OF RELIGION AND THE ARTS

Religious expressions are implicit in art, poetry, drama, dance, and film. Through the media of the arts issues of religious concern can be raised. This is the purpose of the two-week Festival of Religion and the Arts which is being sponsored jointly by the University Chaplains and interested faculty.

The festival will embrace many of the arts, and aims to involve the University community and the general public. The SUB Art Gallery will open the "Alex Colville Art Exhibition" on Monday, October 26, at 8 p.m. A series of six Ingmar Bergman films will be shown in the two week period. ARTHUR GIBSON of St. Michael's College, University of Toronto, a noted theologian and author of The Silence of God, a book about theological insights of Bergman's films, will speak Wednesday, November 4, at 8 p.m.

A Gregorian Latin Mass will be held in St. Joseph's College Chapel, Sunday, November 8, led by the Newman Singers. Excerpts from a contemporary production of Macbeth dramatizing the depth of man's primeval struggle with good and evil will be presented November 12. WALTER SCHIENBEIN, Professor of English at Concordia College, will discuss modern implications of Paradise Lost Sunday, November 15 at the Lutheran Student Centre.

Further information on the Festival will be publicized. JOHN SIMONS and KENNETH KUHN, the organizers of the Festival, may be contacted for details, telephones 432-4620 and 432-4513.

RAY FREEMAN of Varien Associates, Palo Alto, California, was a recent visitor to the Department of Chemistry. On October 22 Dr. Freeman, who has pioneered these techniques, gave an address on "Applications of Fourier Transform Techniques to Nuclear Magnetic Resonance Spectroscopy."

PEOPLE

■ ELIZABETH BREWSTER, DOROTHY LIVESAY, DOUGLAS BARBOUR, and STEPHEN SCOBIE, of the Department of English, read poems at the second general meeting of The League of Canadian Poets, held at Carleton University in Ottawa, from October 9 to 11. Professor Barbour was elected regional representative for the prairies on the new executive of the League.

■ M. J. HUSTON, Dean of the Faculty of Pharmacy and Pharmaceutical Sciences, recently attended a meeting of the Council of the Fédération Internationale Pharmaceutique in conjunction with the Annual Meeting of the general assembly of that organization in Geneva, Switzerland. Dr. Huston is the Canadian representative to the Council.

Also this fall he completed four years of executive duty with the Canadian Pharmaceutical Association and concluded his term of office as President of the Canadian Foundation for the Advancement of Pharmacy.

■ R. T. COUTTS, Professor of Pharmacy and Pharmaceutical Sciences, has been elected for a four-year term to the National Formulary Committee on Specifications by the American Pharmaceutical Board of Trustees. Dr. Coutts recently delivered a lecture entitled "Drug Interactions" to the Edmonton Society of Pharmacists, after which he was honored by the Society with a presentation in token of the continued support he has given to the program of Continuing Education for Pharmacists.

■ MISS LESLIE TEMPEST, fourth-year student in the Faculty of Pharmacy and Pharmaceutical Sciences, has been elected President of the Canadian Association of Pharmacy Students and Interns (CAPSI) for the 1970-71 term of office. CAPSI is perhaps most generally known for its role in distributing information on drugs and their misuse.

■ WILLARD F. REESE, Associate Professor of Elementary Education, has been appointed Chairman of Judges for the Canada-Wide Science Fair for 1971. DAVID BLACKER, graduate student in Educational Administration, will serve as his assistant. This will be the first time that Edmonton has been the host city for this event. The 10th Annual Canada-Wide Science Fair will attract participation by provincial and regional science fair award winners from all over the country.

■ L. C. GREEN, University Professor and member of the Department of Political Science, is presenting a paper, "The UN: Prospects for the Future," at Louisiana State University, October 14 to 16. He is also lecturing at the School of Law, Loyola University, and the Department of Anthropology, Tulane University.

■ G. M. COEN of the Alberta Institute of Pedology recently attended the annual meeting of the Soil Science of America in Tucson, Arizona. Dr. Coen participated in the pre-conference tour which was concerned with the genesis and classification of arid zone soils in that region. The paper he presented at the formal sessions was concerned with the origin and genesis of some clay minerals in Spodosols (Podzols).

■ MILAN V. DIMIC, Chairman of the Department of Comparative Literature, accepted an invitation from the Department of Slavic Languages and Comparative Literature at Indiana University (Bloomington), and delivered a public lecture on October 16 on "Romanticism and the Mediterranean Heritage." He also conducted a seminar on Comparative Literature teaching and studies in Canada.

■ MISS NORMA FREIFIELD, formerly Head of the Circulation Department of Cameron Library, has been appointed Co-ordinator of Circulation Services, effective October 1. The appointment has been made in accordance with a recommendation contained in the report of a systems survey of the University Library carried out earlier this year by Administrative Data Processing. Now that circulation records control has been automated at all major service points, it is felt that circulation services should be placed under one authority to achieve uniformity in administration throughout.

■ ANTHONY L. VANEK, Associate Professor of Linguistics, has been appointed Secretary-Treasurer of the Alberta Linguistic Association. GEORGE PATTERSON, graduate student in Romance Languages, will serve as the campus representative to the Association from The University of Alberta.

■ JOHN ILTIS, Associate Professor of Music, will conduct the Symphonic Wind Ensemble of the Department of Music at the Canadian Band Directors' Association Convention in Banff on October 30.
